Brookfield Asset Management is expected to close its infrastructure credit strategy by the end of October, With Intelligence has learned.

The $1.4tn manager is nearing the $7bn target size for its Brookfield Infrastructure Debt Fund IV (BID IV) and is on track to surpass that in the coming weeks.

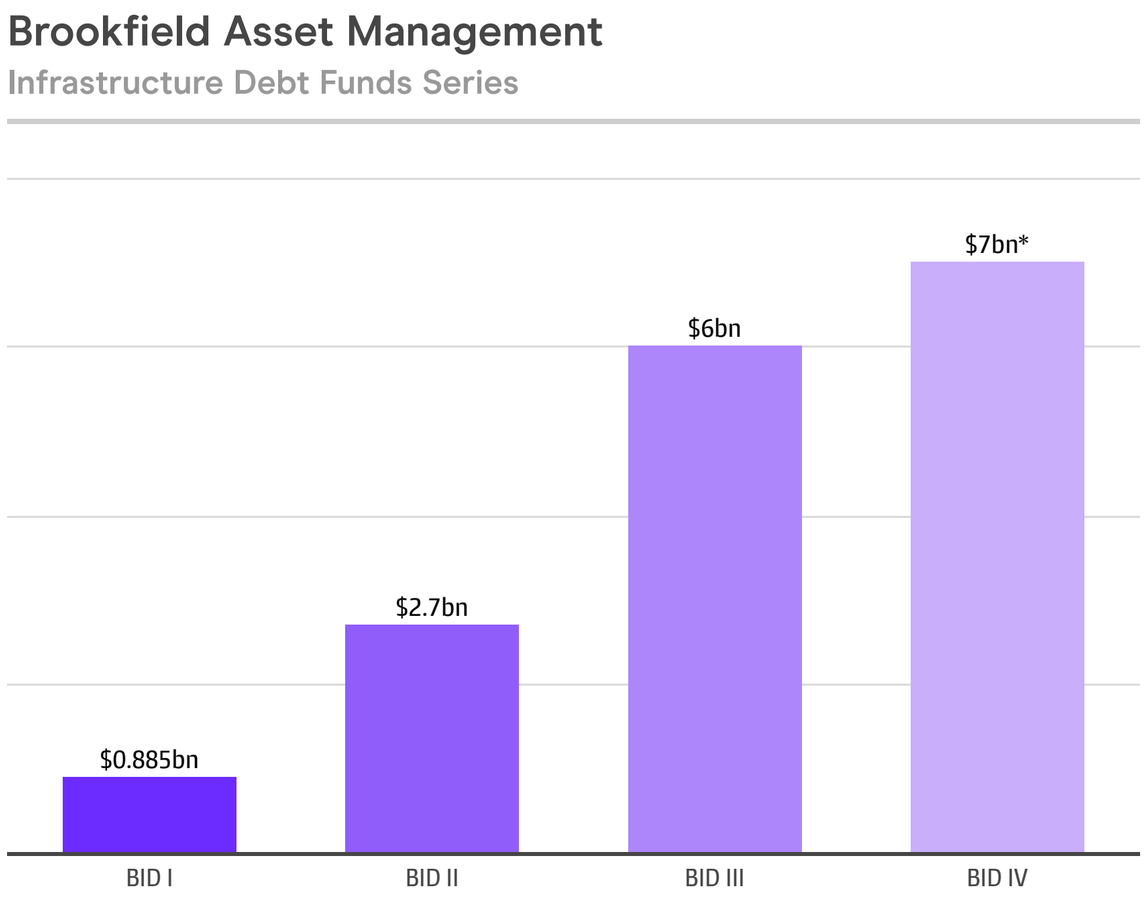

Brookfield logged a $4bn first close on the strategy in October 2025, raising over halfway to its $7bn target, With previously reported.

Investors in the fund include the Maine Public Employees Retirement System and the Illinois Teachers Retirement System, With data shows.

The fund targets high-yield debt investments for infrastructure assets and businesses backed by regulated, contracted, or concession-based cash flows.

The strategy invests in transport, renewable power, utilities, midstream, and data sectors in North America, South America, Australia, and Europe.

The previous vintage, Brookfield Infrastructure Debt Fund III (BID III), closed in 2023 with $6bn of capital commitments, making it the world's largest private infrastructure debt fund at the time.

BID III targets a 7% net IRR and a 10-year term.

The Brookfield Infrastructure Debt strategy is co-led by managing partners Hadley Peer Marshall and Ian Simes.

Brookfield declined to comment on the fund.

Wider fundraising

The Toronto-headquartered alternatives giant is currently in the market for several infrastructure strategies, including its flagship Brookfield Infrastructure Fund VI, targeting $30bn.

With previously reported that the fund had raised $9bn by the second quarter of 2026, and is on track for a sizable first close in the coming months.

The manager also aims to close its $3bn Brookfield Financial Infrastructure Partners by the end of the year, With previously reported.

The fund will invest in financial infrastructure assets, with a focus on North America and Europe. Sectors expected to be targeted include payments, capital markets, banking technology and wealth.
